Honor Code Explained

By Judy Geissler
University Staff Writer

The clarification of the Honor Code called for by yesterday's Universe editorial has been received.

In a statement issued Monday night, many of the questions raised in the editorial "Honor Code Not Honorable" were answered by Tag Taggart, chairman of the Student Honor Council. The Honor Council is a committee under the jurisdiction of the ASBYU President's office.

Taggart told the Universe: "The code in the 1968-70 Catalogue of Courses is the one we're being held responsible for. I must emphasize, however, that it's not because that's what the Student Honor Council wants, but rather because that's what the Administration decided."

UNANIMOUS FEELING

"The unanimous feeling of the Honor Council is and has been that if the Honor Code is to be a student code, we can then only be rightfully held accountable for the code the student body approved in April of 1966 (the one in the student handbook called "forward.")" Taggart explained.

"The Administration may feel differently, which of course it has

Reagan To Present Telelecture At Noon

California Governor Ronald Reagan will answer questions via telelecture today at noon in the Varsity Theater.

The former movie actor is reportedly beginning an extensive speaking tour across the nation this week. His telephone address will be delivered by Dr. Lorin Wheelwright, dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communications.

Today's Devotional Assembly at 10 a.m. in Smith Fieldhouse is themed "Freedom, Law and Order." The main address will be delivered by Dr. Lorin Wheelwright, dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communications.

In a 1968 gubernatorial race against incumbent Edmund Pat Brown, Mr. Reagan won the governorship with a margin of one million votes. He has been considered an important figure in the Republican Party.

He has declined to disclose his actual political aspirations and will go to the convention as a "favorite son" candidate. There has been considerable speculation about his being named running mate for Mr. Nixon.

Westerners Romp

Bucking broncs and leather ducts lend atmosphere to BYU's Western Week.

A big Western Week dance featuring $2500 worth of entertainment will climax the week Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center ballroom.

Such favorite Western entertainers as Johnny and Jonie Mosby, Linda Manning and the KSOP Wranglers of Valley Music Hall fame will highlight the evening of dancing.

Cost is $1 per person.

Dawn Johnson, a junior P.E. major reigns over the western festivities.

Chosen on the basis of horsemanship, poise, and speaking ability, the queen's attendants are Linda Rosenberg and Ann Willard. Linda is a recreation major from San Diego, Calif., and Ann is a senior English major from Warden, Wash.

A western dance will be Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center ballroom. Cost is 25 cents per person. Displays of western paraphernalia will be set up daily throughout the week in the Wilkinson Center.

Wednesday and Friday afternoon dances with music sponsored by Arizona Club will be held. They will be from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center West Patio.

Three rodeos will cap the week—one Friday at 7 p.m. and two Saturday at 1:30 and 7 p.m. respectively. They will be at the BYU rodeo area west of Cougar Stadium. Following the Saturday rodeo, Arizona Club will sponsor a dance in the East Gym of the Smith Fieldhouse.

IN THE SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY...

Turning to thoughts of love and beauties are the minds of many BYU students. Spring is here. Grass hoppers begin to cover campus lawns as the sun continues to shine. Some coeds recline horizontally while others relax in chairs, easing the eyestrain caused by the study of many musty books.

THE WORLD OUTSIDE

Apes Won

by Robert K. Reeve

Political Columnist

I saw a film today, oh boy, where the apes had just won the war. And Charlton Heston just stood and cried...

What it was fielded was a quasi-perfect production made extremely credible. We have no guarantee this globo will be continuing. It could go down with many others as the Creator warns us in Moses Chapter I, Verse 35.

While man can be quite ingenious and responsible for unlimited progress, he holds within his grasp the potential capability that could annihilate this quickly shrinking planet.

Man is the greatest disrupter of nature's homeostatic balance.

Man produces more communicable diseases than any other living creature.

Man is one of nature's only animals that kills his own kind for reasons other than survival. He is also one of the very few carnivorous mammals that destroys other forms of life for the "sport" of it all.

Man is nearly alone in his disrupting of the earth's major geographic regions. It was man who created the endless deserts of Africa.

No other animal pollutes rivers, lakes and the air in the rapid, so proficient manner as does home sapiens.

And in this "land above all other lands" we see man at his "best."

We eat up our natural resources at an incredible speed. We carve up this countryside with ugly neon signs, repulsive billboards and concrete monstrosities of assorted shapes and sizes.

Then we have the audacity to call it progress. We have become so accustomed to ugliness in every conceivable way, shape and form that we actually come to the defense of this great American tradition.

An ugly yellow billboard has been strung all over the nation and in lovely Provo telling the youth to beautify America by getting a haircut!

Poor Mrs. Johnson. She vainly tried.

It is no mysterious wonder so many want to burn down the cities. Were these dollar-hoarding entrepreneurs to make something truly beautiful, in place of their customary asphalt eyesores, the response might be other than "Burn, Baby, Burn."

Man has done a great deal of good. Overall, however, even man's germane contributions have been aimed for the most unthinkable means.

Will the morning of the second resurrection ever come?

I hope so. But I shudder when I look around me.

The Lord repented that he had made man and the earth in Noah's time. He destroyed most of man then.

If things continue on their present collision course, the natural balance will take care of man. I fear it will take care of the "inferior" forms as well.

All the student protests against war, corruption, and deceit don't seem to have a great deal of beneficial influence.

In terms of total population, the Gospel seems to make little difference. The promises made to this earth may come as worthless as the paper they are written on.

One just can't help but be a little pessimistic when the true nature of man is so apparently slothful.

But oh, wow! It's "Laugh-In" time. Let's blow our minds with Rowan and Martin and forget about this world's problems.

Let someone else do the worrying. After all, other generations did. Let's stick the young ones and let them carry it all.

By then they magically might have disappeared. Anything's possible, yes? Even the impossible.

BRING ON THE FAMOUS POETS

Editor:

In the interest of "more truth, more information, and more understanding" may I challenge you to document your claims about marijuanna?

Could you publish a list of the "many doctors and medical authorities," "most of the major, best, and most famous poets," et al., and "many" who claim the drug "aids the creative endeavors?"

This would elevate your argument from the bombastic, sensationalistic back-alley rumour level to that of an intelligent university student.

If, for some reason you fail to make public any such findings, I, and just possibly everyone else who reads your plea, assume that you were unable to find any such documentation. (note: if the BYU library can't help, maybe your neighborhood passerby could supply you with a bibliography)

Alan F. Keele

UNINTELLIGENT

Editor:

The comments of the voters quoted Thursday in the "Choice '63" article is a sad comment on the political awareness and intelligence of BYU voters.

Miss Larsen not only got her missus mixed up (it appears she was thinking of Mayor Daley and his "shoot to kill and/or maim" policy), she voted for a man who took a position on riots almost totally opposed to her own and Mayor Daley's.

As for George Wallace being the "most American candidate"—I didn't know there were degrees of American citizenship. That statement says nothing except possibly that the California sophomore and George Wallace think somewhat alike.

Sen. Percy is a tremendous individual as he showed when he spoke here recently but saying "He's done a tremendous job as a United States Senator" seems rash when you consider that he has been a Senator only fifteen months.

My reason for writing this letter is to encourage BYU students to be more rational and responsible and mature in their voting and political thinking. If there is anything this nation doesn't need it is citizens who are guided more by gut level emotionalism than by wise and intelligent thinking.

As an example of the latter I point to "Wallace Has His Good Points" on page two of the same paper. Though I heartily disagree (and would welcome the opportunity to try to dissuade any Wallace supporters), I feel this article was arrived at after even more careful consideration than the one in the political position. It is unfortunate it supports the candidate with the least to offer America. (And if you think that statement lacks the positive qualities I've called for come and we will reason together.)

This Paper Is Against Marijuana

Many people expressed concern about a letter defending marijuana appearing in Monday's Universe.

While we strongly believe in the First Amendment of the Constitution, namely, each has the right to express his opinions — we at the Universe do not always believe in what these people say.

For the record the Universe cannot support presently any laws that allow man to burn his hair on himself.

We believe constructive, non-emotional dialogue is a requisite in attempting to understand contemporary problems.

The legalization of marijuana is subject to such controversy. However, we do not believe man can be the beneficiary of this drug.

Yet we think man can say what he feels is his prerogative.

Ignorance of marijuana and other drugs has led to many erroneous conceptions of the aforementioned.

The Universe ran a series of editorials earlier this year on LSD and other "turn-on" drugs.

In these we explained the harmful effects of these and some of the historical background that led to their present use.

In most cases research is abundantly in existence to convince any objective thinker of the ill's of these wonder drugs.

With marijuana, substantial background is lacking. However, before we leap into embracing its usefulness (if such could be proven), let us see if there is any redeeming value in permitting its legitimate existence.

Until such time when rational evidence can be mustered to justify the enactment of laws that will lead to subsequent legalization of marijuana, the Universe does not support any change in the drug laws as they now stand.

Cagey, aren't we?

About Those Honor Codes

the right to do," said Taggart. He clarified why the code has never been put to a vote of the student body: "When our council was presented with the revised Honor Code which appears in the catalog, we did not fully agree with it. We felt it was a negative approach to honor."

"Rather than make the students liable for their actions under the code, we felt it was our responsibility to present the Administration with an alternative."

"We have been seeking such an alternative for some time and have finally reached what we unanimously feel is a worthy substitute for the previous proposal. We believe it is in the best interests of the student body.

"It's almost ready to come out. The reason we haven't said anything before this is simply we haven't been ready to."

TWO POSSIBILITIES

Taggart went on to state the two possibilities for the ratification of the new Code, which has been the result of joint efforts of the Honor Council and the Administration.

"If the Administration will accept the new code as we will present it to them and will accept the responsibility for its execution, it will not be necessary to put it to a student vote."

"If, on the other hand, it's going to be called a student code and we're going to have to accept responsibility for it, it will be submitted to a vote of the student body," Taggart explained.

J. Elliot Cameron, Dean of Students, also commented on the new code.

He expressed the hope that "all difficulties and problems which now exist with the Honor Code will be eliminated by the end of the year."

Dean Cameron went on to say he felt the revision now in progress would be the answer to "any discrepancies in the code." He said it was his belief that the new code would meet with the approval of both the student body and the Administration.

Both Taggart and Dean Cameron stated an announcement concerning the new code would be forthcoming at the earliest opportunity.

FOR SOUTH

Editor: In a letter written by Name Withheld at Writer's Request that appeared in Friday's Daily Universe, the author stated that because he has traveled through the South he is an expert on southern politics and the people of Alabama. (Washington, D.C. needs more analysts like him.)

While traveling through the South, he was able to see "flagrant discrimination" and political immaturity.

Apparently, he would like the South to develop "political maturity" like the North. Should the South develop "political maturity" like Washington, D.C.? This has been a showcase of non-discriminatory practices for many years. Unlike you, Name Withheld, I am able to verify my statements.

The April 22, 1968 issue of "U.S. News and World Report" states, "On the payroll of the District of Columbia, more than 55 percent are Negroes. Schools and athletic accommodations long have been integrated. Racial discrimination in housing is forbidden. Yet, Washington experienced one of the biggest and costliest riots the nation has ever seen."

No, Name Withheld, the South can do without the "political maturity" of the North: Detroit, Gary, Newark, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington, New York, Chicago.

The North is anything but "mature" politically or otherwise. It is playing rioters with our tax money.

Again from "U.S. News and World Report" these statements: "The first sacking (of Washington) was by the British a century and a half ago, in August of 1814. The second was by Negro citizens of the United States—a number of whom were employees of the Federal Government. Those employees are now back at work. Members of Congress from the South are contrasting the violence or reaction by the Federal Government as well as commentaries and newspapers in the North, against the playing down and mild treatment of the much greater upheaval in the North and wondering what accounts for the contrast."

The South is not as "immature" as many people falsely lead us to believe.

Never point an accusing finger at the South, without looking in your own "backyard."

Jim Whittemore

IMMATURE

Editor: If the reasons expressed in Thursday's article on "Choice '68" for supporting presidential political maturity of BYU students, such statements surely present a telling argument for raising the minimum voting age to 18.

For example, Miss Larsen, a sociology major, voted for Lindley because of his riot control methods—"If they riot, shoot em." Perhaps Miss Larsen has confused Lindley with Chicago's Richard Daley.

Lindley recently spoke out against Daley's policy of shooting looters—(quoting from Time, Apr. 26) "We are not going to turn disorder into chaos through the unprincipled use of armed force; we are not going to shoot children." The mind boggles at a sociology major advocating an armed force to solve social problems.

Mr. Bailey, an English major (specializing in Julius Caesar) no doubt, supports McCarthy because "He's an honorable man." Was Brutus, Mr. Bailey, and how about Ulysses Grant, Warren G. Harding, or Dwight Eisenhower?

An unidentified sophomore from Spring Valley, Calif., voted for Wallace because "He's the most American candidate." I'm sure the Kerner Commission would agree, as would Rap Brown, who says "Violence is as American as apple pie."

Political science major Walton voted for Kennedy because he has "more experience" than McCarthy. Could Mr. Walton be overawed by first-term senator RFK's ten children?

A New Jersey road backs freshman senator Charles Percy because "He's done a tremendous job as United States Senator." Isn't a bit early to tell, Miss New Jersey? Why not vote for Wallace Bennett instead?

Dick Nixon wasn't mentioned in the article, nor was Reagan. Can't some Republicans come up with an equally compelling reason why I should vote for one of these candidates?

BAND BATTLE

To Mr. Don "To say the least"

Gray:

That's exactly what you did.

We live in a land of freedom—freedom to believe what we may, freedom to express these beliefs, opinions, or feelings publicly, and freedom to work in the occupation of our choice to earn a living.

We have our occupation and our sound. You as a human being have the right to decide whether this sound is appealing to you or not.

You have expressed your belief in the Daily Universe of April 29, 1968 that the Rapid Transit is not capable or worthy of the "illustrious" title of "BVU" and have challenged us to defend this position.

If we had been responsible for the opinion expressed in the article which you referred to in your letter, then we would gladly accept this challenge.

But since the title, as you have interpreted it, implies that we are the favorite band of the RVU student body, might we suggest that you consider your interpretation with facts (possibly from a student opinion poll).

One-Man Show

By Camilla Miner
Culture Editor

A nineteen-year-old freshman student, Olemara Peters, plans a one-man show in the Wilkinson Student Art Gallery to begin May 4.

Miss Peters will exhibit her collection of water colors depicting the traditional costumes of the South African tribes. Also included in the exhibit will be woodwork and Bushman stone tools she and her mother have collected in traveling through South Africa.

It would be an understatement to say Miss Peters has traveled more than most girls her age. This is a result of what she calls "itchy feet," an affliction common to her entire family. She says her father gave her mother "itchy feet" and her mother in turn gave them to her older sister (now an anthropologist) and her.

The family went around the world when Miss Peters was a year and a half old. The traveling group consisted of six females including her 75-year-old grandmother and a Swiss nurse.

Miss Peters and her mother went to South Africa three years ago when her mother, also an artist, began painting the tribes. She kept a diary-sketchbook until Mrs. Peters encouraged her to do some larger paintings. The result is what Miss Peters calls "portraits in a way" of various tribesmen.

Miss Peters has painted approximately 100 costumes in the two six-month trips they have taken to South Africa. She and her mother traveled over 25,000 miles in that nation and have friends among all races there.

The artist finds it unfortunate that "most non-South Africans do not acknowledge the existence of the tribal people." In explaining why she and her mother thought it important to paint the costumes, she said, "We are concerned with recording and preserving their tribal identity."

Ballroom Team To Perform

The international style in ballroom dancing will highlight the concert program of the Ballroom Dance Team Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Most of the "new look" is due to the instructors, Roy and June Mavor of Australia.

The Ballroom Dance Team consists of 84 couples divided into three categories from which are drawn the six teams of eight couples.

Themed "Happy Feet," the program opens with a salute to modern youth through a handful of fast dances including the swing, boogaloo and ska. A Latin flavor is added to a Mardi Gras atmosphere as the students precision-step their way through the samba, cha-cha, tango, samba and paso doble.

Highlight of the first part is the 150-dancer Viennese Waltz portion as the parade introduces the King and Queen of the Ball and the girls—according to an old tradition—show off the dresses they have designed and made themselves.

The King and Queen will have been chosen as a result of a three-week long series of contests where they were judged on dancing ability, poise, grace, contributions to the Team, and contribution to ballroom dancing at BYU as part of the new program to further acceptance of good dance forms in the Church. One of the girls will also be crowned "Miss Elegance."

The eight finalist couples from this contest will do exhibition numbers during the concert along with two special teams of eight couples each from Mr. Mavor's classes.

Lincoln-Douglas Debates Dramatized In 'The Rivalry'

The dramatization of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates will be seen Wednesday through Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the Nelke Experiment-

Soloist Recital

Gladyas Gladstone and Percy Kalt, prominent musicians and soloists in the Utah area, will present a combined recital.

To begin in the Madson Recital Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Building at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, the recital presents four great musical compositions.

First on the program is the "Sonatas" by Schubert, Ernest Bloch's "Sonata" follows. After intermission is Bach's "Sonata in G Major" for violin solo and Beethoven's "Sonata."

Gladyas Gladstone is a pianist on the University of Utah faculty. Her keyboard brilliance is well known in the area. Percy Kalt is a member of the BYU faculty and has performed with his violin for students and faculty here several times this year.

The combined recital is free and no student body activity card is required.

Woodwinds

In Concert

Wednesday at noon another "Music at Midday" performance takes place in the Madson Recital Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Building.

This week music is furnished by several woodwind groups. The largest number of performers presents Schubert's "Sait" with Christine Nibley, flute, Wayne Potts, oboe, Dave Walters, clarinet, Jean Walker, French horn and Scott Dorton, bassoon.

Also on the program are two works by Mozart—"Quintet for Strings and Clarinet transcribed for Piano and Clarinet" and "Concerto No. 2 in E-Flat Major."

Cougar Golfers Clash With Redskins Today

By Jack Bailey
Assistant Sports Editor

"I can't remember when we've had such lousy spring weather," laments golf coach Karl Tucker. "The boys are kind of down because of the late April snow."

Since BYU locks horns with two dual meet foes plus hosting its own Cougar Classic this week, the coach continued to reflect upon the weather: "It's getting so I'm almost afraid to listen to the weatherman, his reports have been so consistently bad."

In spite of "Mother Nature's" frown, the Cougars have managed a 7-1 dual meet record and fashioned a first place finish in the Western Collegiate tourney but faltered in the recent Sun Devil Classic.

Today the BYU squad plays host to Utah, a team the Cougars smothered, 21-4, in near-freezing Salt Lake City weather two weeks ago.

In the Arizona Classic, the Mountain Cat linksters couldn't bring the big shots and experienced their worst finish in three years. Coach Tucker hopes the team can right itself for this week's action.

In facing Colorado on Thursday, again on the Riverside Course, the Cougars go against another of the nation's "fairway" powers. The

Y Netters Win Ojai Tourne

By Glen Willardson
Sports Editor

A consistent effort by BYU's tennis team brought it the Ojai Tennis Tournament team championship in California last weekend.

The Cougars netters competed against 40 teams from the wide area in the western states to win points. Seattle was second with 10, L.A. State was third with eight and Fresno State was fourth with six.

HOME ACTION

Continuing action this week, the Y team will challenge Wyoming Friday at 2:30 p.m. and Montana State Saturday at 10 a.m. Both meets will be held on the BYU courts.

Larry Hall, a sophomore on the BYU squad, got to the finals in the singles competition before losing to Tom Gorman of Seattle, 10-8, 6-3.

Hall also teamed with Keith Nielsen to place second in the doubles competition.

In the open division, Zdravko Mincek won his first three matches and was ahead in the fourth, 6-1, 6-8, 8-7 when he chose to default the match to allow the Cougars to travel back to Provo and not stay an extra day for the finals in the open division.

Nielsen competed in singles and defeated opponents from Cal Western, Pasadena and L.A. State before losing to Gorman, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Nielsen's loss prevented him from entering the finals against Hall. Gorman was also successful in defeating Hall for the singles title.

John Fort and Dave George reached the second round of the tournament before being eliminated. George also teamed with Chuck Pate in doubles, and the duo lost its first match in the elimination tournament.

Hall and Nielsen appeared on their way to the doubles championship as they easily defeated from Pasadena, U.C. at the Seattle, and L.A. State.

LARRY HALL

Eight Seniors Receive Year-Long Dietetic Internships

Eight graduating seniors in the Dept. of Food and Nutrition at BYU have received appointments for dietetic internships to begin next summer, it was announced today by Dr. Marion Benning, department chairman.

The internships are for 12 months after which the students will be eligible for membership in the American Dietetic Association and will be qualified dietitians.

Student and their appointments are:

Richard Bartel of Miami, Fla., to New York State Dept. of Mental Hygiene, Poughkeepsie; Carol Butterfield of Allison Park, Pa.,

and Lana Ells, Hamer, Ida., to LDS Hospital in Salt Lake City; Pamela Francisco of Gardena, Calif., to Case Western Reserve University and Veterans Administration Hospital, Cleveland; Linda Glenn, Clearfield, to Letterman's Hospital, San Francisco.

Others appointed are Sharon Lapioli, Rialto, Calif., to University of California Medical Center, San Francisco; Christina Peterson, Boise, to Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston; Barbara Nelson, Los Angeles, to Veterans Hospital, Los Angeles.
